TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I, Peter Frederick Glibbery, single, male, adult, citizen of Great Britain, born in Solihull, England, and presently residing with Martha Honey and Tony Avirgan in San Jose, Costa Rica, make the following statement. This is made of my own free will and not under duress or pressure. Nor is it being made with the promise of monetary gain.

I met John Howard Davies in South Africa over 2 years ago. We came to Costa Rica together from the United States with the purpose of visiting "Contra" camps on the Northern border of Costa Rica, I, to see first hand what was happening in this part of the world and help where I could, (I am an ex-officer in the British army), and John Davies with the aim of writing a series of articles and a book on Costa Rica, primarily for publication in Great Britain. I have seen correspondence from his publishing company and letters to him from various British newspapers.

I never saw John Davies carry any type of weapon or explosive, nor was he in any way involved in the training of "Contras," or any "Contra" operations. I was never given any reason to think that John Davies was here in Costa Rica for any other reason than simply to interview and write stories about the Nicaraguan "Contras" and the many refugees that daily pour into Costa Rica.
